FERMIN MENDOZA
Souls in the City

"Every person, town, city, and place has a unique heartbeat. This body of work is about identity, places and the interplay between the two.

Either through their historic family roots or by adopting a new "hometown" this series wishes to address the strong feelings people have for the neighborhoods that give them a sense of belonging and community. The portraits are an attempt to glimpse into people's souls and also share their relationship with the place or city they feel the most connected to." Fermin Mendoza
